“Aunty Evie, what can I say such a character, an icon really in our family. I have many childhood memories of her from when the family used to do their holiday visits back to Fiji. What a fun time that was to have the family together. Her voice and her infectious cheeky laugh left an indelible mark in my memories from such a young age!

Just like Richard, I fondly remember coming home from school on Mondays or Tuesdays I think it was and she'd have Macca's or Homestead Chicken waiting for us. Always making sure we had noodles, which I loved to eat fried on their own or if I'd be eyeing off a chocolate or lolly she would give us a few to eat. With these gestures who could really believe her 'tough act' persona 😭

I cheekily asked her once if she could knit me a black beanie but to make sure it had a pom pom on the top. She laughed at me (you can hear her can't you?) and said "pom pom"?! The very next week, you wouldn't believe it but yup, she made one for me, pom pom and all. I still wear it to this day, will continue to do so and treasure it all the more ❤️

Aunty Evie was truly sassy, so quick witted and quicker to laugh. She still had that smile and laugh when I last saw her. Especially when I found out that she loves trashy romance novels and the Bold and the Beautiful!!! I can see that sass in Amanda, Craig and Alan, the apple's of her eye. What joy you 3 brought her and what honour and respect you gave her (and Uncle) in her final days.

I'll remember Aunty Evie as a determined strong willed woman, who loved to have a laugh, who did things her way AND wasn't adverse to telling you to do things her way either!!!

Love you Aunty, till we meet again enjoy watching Bold and the Beautiful with the Popo's ❤️😊

“ Isa dear Aunty Evie, I was only thinking about her few weeks ago and wondering how she has been doing.

*Who can forget coming home from primary school and aunty Evie would bring all us kids McDonald's I used to love those days.
Forever in our hearts and memories ❤️❤️❤️❤️*

“ Aunty Evie taught me how to crochet back in my teenage years, which is something I still do and enjoy until today and which I have passed on to my children.

Thank you Aunty for the treasures you have left with us.

We love you eternally..❤️

May you forever rest in love until we meet again..❤️🥹
