“ There are so many special memories of Grandma. Ranging from delivering us our lunch when we were in primary school, complete with sets of chopsticks, to our last conversation at the nursing home discussing hair cuts and skincare.

Here are some funny highlights I will never forget:

New Year's Eve fireworks on Sydney Harbour, grandma tried to climb over a fence and a policeman told us/ her off.

I came out of Myer ladies toilet back to shop floor with toilet paper stuck out of my trousers.. The commotion she made trying to remove it...

A visit to the doctor- Anthony Mundine sat across from us. She rattled off in Chinese except in English she said "boxer". Well well, she got given a look only Anthony Mundine could give!

The twinkle in her eye when eating sweets and dessert, watching a nature documentary, enjoying eating out and watching shows- she particularly enjoyed the Edinburgh Military Tattoo when we took her to see them at the Stadium

Her recognition of Michael Jackson songs and one of her favs was Billy Ocean's Carribean Queen

She was so adorable signing her name in English

Loved shopping with her- everything was nice according to her and if I couldn't decide between colours, she'd encourage me to buy all

Grandma taught me how to cook. To this day, I make a mean pork spare rib with black bean garlic and chilli, and the wobbliest steamed egg

The way she taught herself to remember how to pronounce Matraville and Ultimo ( Chinese swear words helped apparently )

The delight in her voice when we'd ring up on New Years and birthdays wishing her that she'd win big in mah Jong

*So many many happy and funny memories of Grandma.
She was very much loved.*

Thank you for these memories. They will never be forgotten.

“ Ah Por,
*You loved all of your grandkids and great grandkids and we all love you right back.
I will cherish all the memories of the great times we shared together and you still make me laugh with your funny jokes ( under 3 year olds- cover your ears!!! )
Until, we meet again Grandma... Ah Bo*

“ Mum has been a main artery in our lives since day 1 that Kathy and I have been together. She was the source of humour warmth and a shining light when we stumbled upon a dark spot. We and our children Amy, Jack, Tom and Leo always look up to her as a pillar of love, happiness and hope.
Sleep well Mum.
Rest In Peace.
With forever love,
Pote & Kathy Inthapichai
