“ In my heart, I always feel my father is a great achiever. When he was little, he only had an opportunity to study one year in informal school. However, he had great determination to self-study. Surprisingly he could not only read and write Chinese but also manage very beautiful Chinese calligraphy.

Apart from driving profession skill for most of his career life, he really had special skills in doing general household maintenance and repairing works like excavation, concreting, plumbing, electrical, tiling, carpentry and gardening works as he did not receive any relevant training at all. I admire him that he had such great enthusiasm and skills observing and picking up knowledge.

Even though he had very little knowledge of English, he could again purposely dedicate his heart and effort to study and read Sydney A-Z map book while recognising so many roads and directions. He did surprise us with his effort, devotion and knowledge.

My father is absolutely a great achiever and I miss him a lot and he will be forever in my mind.

*Love

Dear Uncle Chan : On Oct 23-24, we have come afar to take part in celebrating your birthday. After a month, the sad news came to Maple land. For this reason, I have come to say " farewell " in great respect and deep condolences !

Needless to say, you have given Pak Mo 伯母 your best in life . The joint effort, love and affection have built up the Chan family since I have known you in Hongkong dated back in 1968. Now, your dearest children n grand-childs are mourning the lost of " Love, Care and Help" you have given.

Uncle Chan, they have built up a strong family bond together. For sure, the children will take good care of Pak Mo 伯母 in the years ahead!

Rest in heavenly peace!Amen !

“ My dearest father-in-law,

He looked cool most of the time and did not like to talk much. However when we were playing mah-jong, he really enjoyed it and became very talkative and was smiling face the whole way.

When he had a clear mind, he did have multi-skills to handle lots of housework repairs by himself. Dear father-in-law you actually did very well in your life. You will be forever in my heart and my thoughts. Rest in Peace!

“ 姨丈 was always kind and loving to us. When we were small and all in HK, 姨丈姨媽 were usually the first we paid visit to on the day of Chinese New Year. His favourite gigantic plum blossom which stretched across half the room, the chicken congee that was warm and ready to be served .. these are some of the sweet memory which will always be with us. 姨丈 never gave us any harsh words.

Thank you for your love and care. May you rest in peace. We will miss you always.

Dear Walter & Isabella

Sorry to know about the loss of your beloved father/ father-in-law.

He was such a wonderful man. When I first arrived Australia, he helped me to pick up my new car at Auburn with Eric. Since I was not familiar with the new place, he offered to drive my car back to Eastwood. On the way home, he taught me a lot how to drive safely. He also drove around Eastwood & Denistone East, showing me the way from home to DEPS, & the way back home after pickup kids from school.

Uncle, you are such a nice & helpful man. We miss you.

May you rest in Peace!
