“ Whoever involved in organising this memorable memorial service for our beloved Sylvia deserved our gratitude for the presentation with her drawings, the photo slides of the family and Sylvia's past, the very moving obituaries , the sharing of Pastor Choy all conducted so solemnly and ended with the positive outlook of the Christian faith. Though I only met Sylvia once in her early stage of her brain tumour, she remains vividly my mind of one who could count God's countless blessings for having been born in such a beautiful family, showered with the brotherly love around her. In turn, she reflected this towards her nephew who broke down in tears in his grief of missing her. The most unforgettable part of all is the photo of her in her sick bed, watching the church's Sunday service, or in fact participating in the worship before she drew her last breath on earth. What an admirable way to go in the presence of her loved ones around, while her Saviour would be taking over from the other side, the promise of green pastures and running stream, and the PEACE that paaseth all understanding. It's also worth mentioning that her sister in law managed to confirm with her of grasping the promise that we all want to share with our loved ones. Sylvia, it won't be the last time I met you in the hospital, as the first. David Lau
