“ *My memories of William will always be of the handsome young man who warmly included me in the family when I had none with me growing up in Sydney. Thank you for always acknowledging my being - as this was so important to a girl that felt lost in her new environment. Thank you for your candor and late night conversations. You were so humble even then, that you couldn't see all of the amazing light and potential within and ahead. I hope you Finally find the peace that is so truly deserved. And see the beauty within which you found elusive in life. I'm sure your loving and beautiful children and family will continue to carry the same glow to light up the lives of many others to come.
