“ We knew each other only briefly but it was clear to me that Yvonne was a kind and beautiful soul. I still play some of the music you introduced me to to this day. Rest In Peace

“ If a word had to be used to define Yvonne, it would be compassion. She was kind to others, thoughtful. She helped me when I was sad and in need. She was my friend when I wanted to play and draw and have fun.

Losing her will leave a mark on many. But I believe we all take comfort in that as well. Because to touch people as much and with as much meaning as she has is a truly remarkable achievement indeed.

Thank you for being my friend, Von.

“ Yvonne, I will miss you dearly. I still can't believe you aren't here anymore. You were such a strong, motivated, intelligent, passionate, wise and independent woman, and I have always admired and respected you. I wish I still had the chance to tell you that, and to let you know how much your friendship meant to me. I have countless memories of all the fun things we did together over the years, like travelling with you in Amsterdam, London and Berlin. We partied and rode bikes and tried so many nice restaurants. I remember you had so much energy and just made the best of every moment. I will miss all the foodie expeditions we went on together. You were always so fun and creative and interesting. My last memory of you was a few months ago. I took you to a cello concerto and we laughed and drank champagne and you loved the music. I'm so shocked and devastated that we can never share moments like that again. Rest in peace, I will never forget you. X

“ Oh Yvonne. We used to say that if only we could bottle your boundless supercharged energy and love of everything around you, we'd never need to work again, and we could just all inhabit this awesome Yvonne World of Amazingness with you.

I've genuinely not known a more courageous, generous, funny, caring, curious, inspiring and funky individual as you. You invested so much of yourself in everyone around you, you were endlessly hungry to learn more -- about design, about events, about life, about everything -- and you were unstoppably motivated to do more and more to impact the world around you in more and more positive ways.

*Thank you. Thank you for showing me that we do need to be the change we seek in the world. Thank you for showing me how. Thank you for your counsel, your hugs, your patience, your willingness to just listen. And thank you for the dumplings.*

I miss you so much.

“ To my dearest Yvonne, my little chicken, my best friend. Have I told you lately that I love you? Have I told you how much I miss you? You changed my life, do you realise that? Do you know the immense happiness you brought to me?

I am forever grateful to our friend, Mandy Tse for introducing us at that fateful Parklife of 2007. We instantly bonded. You took me under your wing. It didn't matter that I was white and everyone else with us was Asian, you took my hand and we became friends. I still remember so clearly you taking me away to a remote corner of the park and telling me we needed to cherish this moment in time as it was so very special.

Do you remember the first time we went out together, just the two of us? We met at the night noodle markets and I was so nervous. I was worried you wouldn't like me away from the lights and fanfare of Parklife. I remember messaging you later that night and saying wouldn't it be nice if we could be friends. You probably laughed and told me we already were.

Do you remember how you helped me through the heartache that was my life in late 2007? How we went on our biggest adventure of our lives to Japan in 2008. Oh the adventures we had. Remember Ashton? And the Swedish boys and our favourite one of all Tomaji? Your Tomato, the one you wanted to kiss but didn't. Remember how we left him in a street of Osaka at 4am in the morning. He was heartbroken, in one night he had managed to fall for you. Remember how you said we would go back to find him one day?

Do you remember that fateful night in September 2008 when we went to Ting's party? I told you it was going to be a good night as we skipped down to the party. It was all thanks to you that I even spoke to Harry. You ever confident went straight over and spoke to him, told him I liked his hair and walked away. Do you remember how you told me to give him my umbrella so he would have a reason to call me?

Oh my friend, my heart is so broken. All my happy memories of the last nine years have you in it. You were always there for me, in my bad times and my good. Always reassuring me, always offering kind words and positive advice. You were always the happy one, the one that lifted me up. I am so sorry. I love you so much; you will always be my best friend.

“ To the Lee family ,

There are many people she touched.

*A generous soul, a joyous being and intelligent and curious mind.
We all share in your sadness .*

We can't understand what had happened but find comfort in knowing the legacy she left will always be remembered. The girl who showed that simple kindness and acceptance breaks all barriers, that positivity is infectious and passion is motivating.

It was such an honour and a privilege to have met a wonderful human. Rest in peace my friend , I will miss you forever. Until we meet again, be free, be happy xx

“ To Yvonne's nearest and dearest. I am so deeply sorry for your loss. I knew Yvonne in a professional capacity. She was a force for good, literally bursting with spunk, creativity, smarts and soul. And style too! I'm in awe of the impact she had on the world. Her legacy will live on through the countless lives she touched.

Condolences.
